Strict Assessment Settings to Deter Cheating

Click the Settings link on the content item.

Select Advanced settings.

The following options are available under the Interaction tab.

Display 1 question at a time on the screen. Students have to select an answer before they can see the next question.

Randomize the order in which questions are delivered. The same question won’t be displayed on everyone’s screen. On top of that, we’ll also randomize each question’s answer options in the case of A, B, C, or D.

Do not allow students to go back after they’ve answered or skipped a question. Since they’re displaying 1 at a time on their screen, they’ll have 1 shot to think about an answer.

You can also set a time limit on the quiz, and give a warning when time is almost up.

You can automatically force the assessment to submit when time expires. Otherwise, it will show how many seconds late the submission was when you grade it. This is a matter of preference.

The following options are available under the Review tab.

By default, once a student submits an assessment they see their graded exam.

You can either set the review to be visible a few days after the exam is over.

Or you can say only after all questions are graded.
